Acknowledgements

The development of the GGS-II Wave 2 questionnaire was supported by Marta Bryzek (Cardinal Stefan Wyszyński University) and the GGP Central Coordination Team (Arieke Rijken, Wojciech Jablonski, Siyang Kong, Aisling Connolly, Anne Gauthier).

The open competition for user modules was coordinated by Brienna Perelli-Harris (University of Southampton), Letizia Mencarini (Bocconi University), Martin Kreidl (Masaryk University), and Monika Mynarska (Cardinal Stefan Wyszyński University) with support from Wiktorija Bačhorek (Cardinal Stefan Wyszyński University). We thank everyone who submitted a module, and particularly the authors of the selected user modules included in the GGS-II Wave 2 questionnaire (see below).

Developing the GGS-II wave 2 questionnaire

The development of the GGS-II wave 2 questionnaire marks an important step in the second round of data collection of the GGS. While the GGS-II baseline questionnaire has undergone significant changes (see Gauthier et al. 2022<sup>1</sup> for a short history of the development of the baseline questionnaire), the follow-up questionnaire has never been reviewed. In GGS-I the two follow-up questionnaires, developed in 2006, followed the same format and content as the GGS-I baseline questionnaire with additional questions on changes in relationship and childbirth between waves. The development of the GGS-II follow-up questionnaire took a different approach. A new Questionnaire Task Force (QTF) was established to develop a new GGS-II follow-up questionnaire. The QTF was led by Monika Mynarska, with members Detlev Lück, Zsuzsanna Makay, and Laurent Toulemon. Their work was supported by Olga Grünwald from the GGP Central Coordination Team and Marta Bryzek.

The work on the follow-up questionnaire started with reviewing the GGS-II baseline questionnaire (version 3.1.0) and set out to address three major challenges. First, since the GGS is a panel survey that incorporates both retrospective and prospective elements with a strong emphasis on family and fertility issues, it was crucial to ensure that these topics remained central to the follow-up questionnaire. Second, the revision needed to allow for the inclusion of innovative elements, new items, and user-specific modules. Third, the questionnaire had to be concise and straightforward enough to be feasible for various modes, including Computer-Assisted Web Interviewing (CAWI) and self-administered Paper and Pencil Interviewing (PAPI).

To achieve these objectives, the GGS-II follow-up questionnaire was restructured into new thematic sections, featuring shorter segments consisting of 3–16 items each that are more cohesive than those in the GGS-II baseline questionnaire. Within each thematic segment, only the central items from the GGS-II baseline questionnaire were repeated, while problematic, complex, or less relevant items were eliminated. A major focus was placed on updating respondents' life histories, particularly regarding family-related events such as partnership history, fertility history, and migration information. For the items that were repeated from the GGS-II baseline questionnaire, the variable names were unchanged from wave 1 to ensure comparability and harmonization between the two waves. New items in wave 2 received a new variable name.

Moreover, space was allocated for several innovations from the user community. In 2023, an open competition for new content for the questionnaire took place, which received numerous submissions. A selection committee (consisting of Brienna Perelli-Harris, Letizia Mencarini, Monika Mynarska, and Martin Kreidl) evaluated these submissions, and input was also provided by the members of the GGP Consortium Board. The new modules introduced in the follow-up questionnaire include:

This survey explores experiences in relationships, family, work, and other important parts of life. Your answers will help scientists understand the complexities of today's families and the reality of people at different stages of their life. The findings will also guide policymakers on improving societal issues like work-life balance, social connections, and gender equality. Your participation is voluntary, and you can skip any of the questions if you prefer. We will remove all personal identifiers from the data and ensure that your answers are only accessed by authorized users for non-commercial purposes.
