Variable Names and Matches to GGP Wave 1 Questionnaire:

Questions are numbered with a capital letter and number. In the Swedish data files, the variable names correspond to the question number (A01, C23, etc.), but the letter is lower case. In the questionnaire below, the question number from the GGP Full Questionnaire, Wave 1, is included under each of the Swedish question numbers, starting with Q. If the GGP number starts with QR, the source of the information is for most respondents from 2011 population registers; the question was asked only when the information was not found in the registers or as a follow-up when the respondent was asked if the register information was correct and answered ‘no’.
Introduction:
As you know from the letter you received from Statistics Sweden and Stockholm University Demography Unit (SUDA), you have been selected to participate in the survey called Swedish Families in Time. The survey focuses on your current and potential future family relations and the economic and social conditions that affect family life. The answers that you and other respondents provide will help us to understand how Swedish family relations function and change. They will, among other things, be used to compare Swedish families with families in other European countries. The information may also be used to develop better family policy instruments to support individuals and their families.

Swedish families in time

Thank you for participating in the survey, Swedish families in time. The information you have provided in the telephone interview will give decision-makers and the public a better picture of family life in Sweden today and how it has changed and how it will continue to change in the future.

This questionnaire includes additional questions that are important for understanding family change but that take less time to answer than the interview. Most of the questions offer alternatives that you can simply choose. Your participation is, of course, voluntary, and you can refuse to answer single questions, but your answers can never be replaced by anyone else’s!

You can choose to answer the questions on the Internet. You will find the questions at www.insamling.scb.se. Log in with the following user-id and password:

If you choose instead to answer the questionnaire via the paper form, send it in the postage-paid envelope.

Your information is protected

Just as in the telephone interview in which you participated earlier, the information you provide is protected by the law on openness and secrecy (2009:400) together with the law on personal information (1998:204). Everyone who works with the survey is bound by confidentiality and the results that are presented never include any individual answers. The number at the top of the form allows Statistics Sweden to know who has answered and who should get a reminder. After Statistics Sweden has finished working on the data, all identifying information that would allow anyone to see to whom the information refers is removed before your answers are given to researchers at the Stockholm University Demography Unit, the Aging Research Center at Karolinska Institute, the Swedish National Data Service and the UNECE database held outside Sweden. In reports about the study’s results your answers will be presented only as numbers in tables and figures, together with others’ answers.

Do you want to know more about the survey?

If you have questions about the survey, you are welcome to contact the survey leader, Mohammad Sepahvand, Statistics Sweden in Örebro by telephone at 019-17 61 94 or by email to GGS@scb.se or you can call one of us listed below.

More information about the survey in Sweden and in other countries is found on the home page www.suda.su.se/ggs. After the survey has been completed, you will be able also to find overviews of the survey’s results.

Thank you for participating in the survey!
Thank you for participating in the survey, Swedish families in time. The information you have provided in the telephone interview will give decision-makers and the public a better picture of family life in Sweden today and how it has changed and how it will continue to change in the future.

This questionnaire includes additional questions that are important for understanding family change but that take less time to answer than the interview. Most of the questions offer alternatives that you can simply choose. Your participation is, of course, voluntary, and you can refuse to answer single questions, but your answers can never be replaced by anyone else’s!

You can choose to answer the questions on the Internet. You will find the questions at www.insamling.scb.se. Log in with the following user-id and password:

Userid:
Password:

If you choose instead to answer the questionnaire via the paper form, send it in the postage-paid envelope.

Your information is protected

Just as in the telephone interview in which you participated earlier, the information you provide is protected by the law on openness and secrecy (2009:400) together with the law on personal information (1998:204). Everyone who works with the survey is bound by confidentiality and the results that are presented never include any individual answers. The number at the top of the form allows Statistics Sweden to know who has answered and who should get a reminder. After Statistics Sweden has finished working on the data, all identifying information that would allow anyone to see to whom the information refers is removed before your answers are given to researchers at the Stockholm University Demography Unit, the Aging Research Center at Karolinska Institute, the Swedish National Data Service and the UNECE database held outside Sweden. In reports about the study’s results your answers will be presented only as numbers in tables and figures, together with others’ answers.

Do you want to know more about the survey?

If you have questions about the survey, you are welcome to contact the survey leader, Mohammad Sepahvand, Statistics Sweden in Örebro by telephone at 019-17 61 94 or by email to GGS@scb.se or you can call one of us listed below.

More information about the survey in Sweden and in other countries is found on the home page www.suda.su.se/ggs. After the survey has been completed, you will be able also to find overviews of the survey’s results.

Thank you for participating in the survey. Your participation is important and of great help!

Thank you for participating in the survey!
Swedish families in time

Thank you for participating in the survey, Swedish families in time. The information you have provided in the telephone interview will give decision-makers and the public a better picture of family life in Sweden today and how it has changed and how it will continue to change in the future.

This questionnaire includes additional questions that are important for understanding family change but that take less time to answer than the interview. Most of the questions offer alternatives that you can simply choose. Your participation is, of course, voluntary, and you can refuse to answer single questions, but your answers can never be replaced by anyone else’s!

You can choose to answer the questions on the Internet. You will find the questions at www.insamling.scb.se. Log in with the following user-id and password:

Password:

If you choose instead to answer the questionnaire via the paper form, send it in the postage-paid envelope.

Your information is protected

Just as in the telephone interview in which you participated earlier, the information you provide is protected by the law on openness and secrecy (2009:400) together with the law on personal information (1998:204). Everyone who works with the survey is bound by confidentiality and the results that are presented never include any individual answers. The number at the top of the form allows Statistics Sweden to know who has answered and who should get a reminder. After Statistics Sweden has finished working on the data, all identifying information that would allow anyone to see to whom the information refers is removed before your answers are given to researchers at the Stockholm University Demography Unit, the Aging Research Center at Karolinska Institute, the Swedish National Data Service and the UNECE database held outside Sweden. In reports about the study’s results your answers will be presented only as numbers in tables and figures, together with others’ answers.

Do you want to know more about the survey?

If you have questions about the survey, you are welcome to contact the survey leader, Mohammad Sepahvand, Statistics Sweden in Örebro by telephone at 019-17 61 94 or by email to GGS@scb.se or you can call one of us listed below.

More information about the survey in Sweden and in other countries is found on the home page www.suda.su.se/ggs. After the survey has been completed, you will be able also to find overviews of the survey’s results.

Thank you for participating in the survey. Your participation is important and of great help!

Thank you for participating in the survey!
Swedish families in time

Thank you for participating in the survey, Swedish families in time. The information you have provided in the telephone interview will give decision-makers and the public a better picture of family life in Sweden today and how it has changed and how it will continue to change in the future.

This questionnaire includes additional questions that are important for understanding family change but that take less time to answer than the interview. Most of the questions offer alternatives that you can simply choose. Your participation is, of course, voluntary, and you can refuse to answer single questions, but your answers can never be replaced by anyone else’s!

You can choose to answer the questions on the Internet. You will find the questions at www.insamling.scb.se. Log in with the following user-id and password:

- Userid: [enter user-id]
- Password: [enter password]

If you choose instead to answer the questionnaire via the paper form, send it in the postage-paid envelope.

Your information is protected

Just as in the telephone interview in which you participated earlier, the information you provide is protected by the law on openness and secrecy (2009:400) together with the law on personal information (1998:204). Everyone who works with the survey is bound by confidentiality and the results that are presented never include any individual answers. The number at the top of the form allows Statistics Sweden to know who has answered and who should get a reminder. After Statistics Sweden has finished working on the data, all identifying information that would allow anyone to see to whom the information refers is removed before your answers are given to researchers at the Stockholm University Demography Unit, the Aging Research Center at Karolinska Institute, the Swedish National Data Service and the UNECE database held outside Sweden. In reports about the study’s results your answers will be presented only as numbers in tables and figures, together with others’ answers.

Do you want to know more about the survey?

If you have questions about the survey, you are welcome to contact the survey leader, Mohammad Sepahvand, Statistics Sweden in Örebro by telephone at 019-17 61 94 or by email to GGS@scb.se or you can call one of us listed below.

More information about the survey in Sweden and in other countries is found on the home page www.suda.su.se/ggs. After the survey has been completed, you will be able also to find overviews of the survey’s results.

Thank you for participating in the survey. Your participation is important and of great help!
