Preface

This publication is version 1 of the codebook for the fourth wave of the Netherlands Kinship Panel Study (NKPS). For more background information on the NKPS, we refer the reader to the Wave 1, Wave 2, and Wave 3 codebooks (NKPS Working Paper No. 4, NKPS Working Paper No. 8, and NKPS Working Paper No. 10) and the NKPS website www.nkps.nl. The current data release is the final release; any upcoming data release will only contain updates on possible minor errors that have not been discovered yet. Any minor changes to the data after the final release will be documented in the file ‘version.txt’, which is included in the data package available on www.nkps.nl.

A number of changes were introduced in Wave 4 (see Chapter 2 for details). The most important change is that the data were primarily collected through Web interviews, and no interviews were conducted using Computer Assisted Personal Interviewing (CAPI) anymore. Additionally, the current partner of the main respondent was no longer approached for completing a self-completion questionnaire.

We report on the data-collection of the fourth wave as thoroughly as possible. Nevertheless, we cannot rule out the possibility that problems will be detected in the data. We encourage users to report all errors and anomalies that they discover.

Rotterdam, May 2015.

The Netherlands Kinship Panel Study Wave 4 is a collaborative effort of four social scientists. The team members are: Pearl Dykstra (Erasmus University Rotterdam), Aafke Komter (Erasmus University Rotterdam), Aart Liefbroer (NIDI/VU University Amsterdam/Groningen University), and Clara Mulder (Groningen University). The fieldwork was coordinated by Sean de Hoon (Erasmus University Rotterdam). Stephan van Baarle (master student at Erasmus University Rotterdam) provided assistance in the final phases of the Wave 4 fieldwork. The data preparation was done by Martijn Hogerbrugge (Erasmus University Rotterdam).

The groundwork for developing a large-scale study on families in the Netherlands was laid by Jenny Gierveld (NIDI), who is a member of the NKPS Scientific Advisory Council. Other Dutch members are: Wim van Oorschot (chair, KU Leuven), Manuela du Bois-Reymond (Leiden University), Christine Brinkgreve (Utrecht University), Harry Ganzeboom (VU University Amsterdam), Paul de Graaf (Tilburg University), Louk Hagendoorn (Utrecht University), Pieter Hooimeijer (Utrecht University), Kees de Hoog (who unfortunately passed away in 2008), Kees Knipscheer (VU University Amsterdam), Tom Snijders (Groningen University), Justus Veenman (Erasmus University Rotterdam), and Wilma Vollebergh (Utrecht University). Current international members of the Scientific Advisory Council are: Sara Arber (University of Surrey), Gunhild Hagestad (Norwegian Social Research (NOVA) / Akershus University College of Applied Sciences), Johannes Huinink (Bremen University), Martin Kohli (European University Institute, Florence), Eva Lelièvre (Institut National d'Etudes Démographiques, INED), Judith Seltzer (University of California, Los Angeles), Elizabeth Thomson (Stockholm University / University of Wisconsin, Madison) and Alan Walker (The University of Sheffield).

The fieldwork for the fourth wave was carried out by Growth for Knowledge Panel Services (GfK PS) and USP Marketing Consultancy. Staff members who contributed to the NKPS included Ellen van Spijk, Stephan Dijcks, Frans Louwen, and Stephan Santegoets (GfK PS) and Cindy Hameete-Oostra and Lidija Markovic (USP).

2 Differences between Wave 3 and Wave 4

2.1 Questionnaire content

The Wave 4 questionnaire focused on the changes that had taken place in the lives of the respondents and their families since the first, second, and third wave. In the fourth wave preloading was used as in the earlier waves; that is, we included information about the respondent's situation at the time of the last interview in the computer-assisted questionnaire. Where appropriate, the respondent was asked whether the Wave 3 information was correct and whether changes had taken place since that time. These checks improved the quality of the data.

In Wave 4, several questions were added to the interview to be able to compare and harmonize the NKPS data with data from the Onderzoek Gezinsvorming 2013 (OG 2013)² and the Gender and Generations Survey (GGS)³. The added questions mostly concerned future plans and expectations regarding romantic partners and children. Additionally, a number of questions in Module S (items from the former [Wave 1 and Wave 2] self-completion questionnaire; see section 3.2 of the codebook of Wave 3) were slightly rephrased to harmonize them with the Onderzoek Gezinsvorming 2013 (OG 2013) and the Gender and Generations Survey (GGS).

To minimize the extra time effort for respondents, previous questions on the break-up process and the current relationship with the ex-partner; some details on the relationship with specific family members; the occurrence of negative life events among these family members as well as the respondent; the use of child care; family businesses; and the relationship with the current partner were removed from the questionnaire. Questions focusing on changes and important transitions were all kept in the Wave 4 questionnaire. A detailed overview of the changes in the questionnaire can be found in Appendix 4.

2.2 Mixed method

As in Wave 3, the data were mainly gathered by Web Interviewing (Web). Computer Assisted Telephone Interviewing (CATI) was also administered in case respondents had difficulty completing the questionnaire online, or had no access to the Internet. Unlike previous waves, Computer Assisted Personal Interviewing (CAPI) was no longer offered as an alternative to respondents. Among the reasons for taking out CAPI and encouraging Web were cost savings and the possibility of boosting response among selected categories (e.g. men in younger age groups). Note that CATI was not offered until the second week of data collection, when sample members who had not yet participated or had not been reached were re-contacted. Consequently, the majority of data was collected using Web (87 %), whereas 13 % of respondents used CATI.

2.3 Permission to link questionnaire information to registry data

As in Wave 2 and Wave 3, primary respondents were asked permission to link information gathered about them to data in the Social Statistical Database developed by Statistics Netherlands (<http://www.cbs.nl/nl-NL/menu/informatie/onderzoekers/ssb/default.htm>). 84 % of the respondents gave permission to do so.

2.4 Alter sample

In order to reduce costs, no separate data collection among Survey Alters was conducted in Wave 4. In Wave 1 and 2, a maximum of five network members provided information via self-completion questionnaires (i.e., the current partner, one randomly chosen parent, one randomly chosen sibling, and two randomly chosen children). In Wave 3, such information was only collected from the current partner of the main respondent. In Wave 4, this final Survey Alter was dropped from the data collection as well. All Wave 4 data were thus provided exclusively by the main respondent during the main interview.

3 Questionnaire

Data from Anchors (primary respondents) was collected using a questionnaire which was administered through Web or CATI. The questionnaire (the translation into English and the original Dutch version) can be found in Appendices 6 and 7 respectively. Both versions of the questionnaire have the variable names printed.

3.1 Preloading

The questionnaire for the Anchors used preloading, which means that information gathered during Waves 1, 2, and 3 was programmed into the Wave 4 version. Some of the information was used explicitly, for example when checking the respondent's name and address at the start of the questionnaire. At other times, this information was used more or less implicitly for routing purposes. The questionnaire frequently referred to the month and year in which the last interview was conducted.

Family members were identified according to a particular format, such as 'Maarten, the brother born in 1953'. This rather lengthy description was used to indicate as clearly as possible who was being referred to. In follow-up questions this description was usually put in brackets. For instance, in follow-up questions Maarten would be referred to as 'Maarten (the brother born in 1953)'. During CATI, it was up to the interviewer to decide whether to use the long or the short version. In practice, the short description tended to suffice.

The questionnaire was programmed in Bellview by GfK PS (the organization that carried out the fieldwork), and tested by the NKPS team members and GfK PS. The questionnaire was tested for:

- Correct representation and use of information gathered during the previous waves;
- Correct routing;
- Correspondence and consistency of the questions and answer categories in the online questionnaire with the questions and answer categories in the hardcopy version;
- Possible error notifications;
- Unclear content;
- Implemented controls.

To minimize the burden on the respondent, the number of controls in the questionnaire was kept as low as possible, and mostly concerned 'soft' controls on frequencies, years, and number of hours. One 'hard' control was inserted between questions DB401FA and DB401MA: if the father was married to the mother, the mother had to be married to the father.

3.2 Content

The original questionnaire was divided into the following modules (sections printed in grey were part of the Wave 1 and Wave 2 questionnaires but were no longer included in the Wave 3 and/or Wave 4 questionnaires):

- A. Background
- B. Parental home
- C. Partners, parents-in-law and children
- D. Brothers and sisters
- E. Other household members
- F. Non-family relationships (not part of the Wave 3 and Wave 4 questionnaires)
- G. Details of specific relationships
- H. Alter addresses (not part of the Wave 4 questionnaire)
- I. Partner and immediate family (only questions about children were kept in Wave 3; by Wave 4, all questions were dropped)
- J. Grandchildren
- K. Family – General (not part of the Wave 3 and Wave 4 questionnaires)
- L. Home
- M. Work, education and income
- N. Ethnicity, religion and health (only the health related items have been kept in the Wave 3 and Wave 4 questionnaires)
- S. ‘Self-completion’-questionnaire (items from the former self-completion questionnaire have been integrated into the Wave 3 and Wave 4 main questionnaires, see also section 3.1.5 of the codebook of Wave 3)
- P. Conclusion
- R. Evaluation questions (for CATI versions only)
- X. Alter characteristics

As in Wave 3, the former [Wave 1 and Wave 2] Anchor self-completion questionnaire was integrated into the main questionnaire. As all data in this wave were gathered by Web and CATI, there was no option for the interviewers to drop off and/or pick up the self-completion paper version. In Wave 4, the S-module consisted of the following four sections:

- Opinions about family and other issues
- Health and well-being
- Relationship with partner and children
- Leisure time (church visits only)

At the end of the questionnaire (Module P) the respondent was asked to give his/her permission to be contacted for a follow-up survey. Respondents were also asked to give permission to link information gathered about them during the NKPS to data compiled by Statistics Netherlands (CBS). Only those respondents who did not participate after the first invitation (see section 4.5.2) were offered a gift certificate as an incentive – between 10 and 15 Euros – or were given the option of donating the equivalent amount to charity. The interviewers had to complete a short evaluation form (Module R) immediately after each successful CATI interview.

3.3 Data on family members (Alters)

As in the previous waves, the same set of questions was asked about almost all family members. We refer to these questions as Alter characteristics, and they formed the so-called X-module. This module recurred throughout the interview – every time certain types of relationships had been referred to. The Alter characteristics related to:

- First name (not for current partner, or parents)
- Sex
- Month and year of birth
- Year of death (if applicable)
- Custody arrangements and alimony if Alter is a child of a separated Anchor respondent
- Living arrangement
- Place of residence
- Frequency of contact

A series of additional questions was asked in Module G about at most seven people. These seven people were: the current partner, the biological mother, the biological father, at most two children already selected in Waves 1, 2 and 3, and at most two siblings already selected in Waves 1, 2 and 3. These questions related to:

- Marital status
- Parental status and number of children
- Giving and receiving support
- Quality of the relationship
- General state of health.

Table 3.1 provides an overview of the questions about family members.

Table 3.1 Information about family members collected in the Wave 4 questionnaire.

^a Including general state of health of Alter.

^b For this Alter, the postal code was not collected in the X-module.

^c For this Alter, information on the year of death was not collected in the X-module.

^d Alter characteristics from Module X and solidarity questions in Module G are only asked for LAT-partners (including LAT-partners that Anchor already had a relationship with at Wave 3 [P3] and new LAT-partners at Wave 4 [P4]).

^e Including biological, half, step, and adopted siblings.

^f Including biological, step, and adopted children.

^g For this category, only information on sex and age was collected and can be found in Module E.

^h This information can be found in Module B.

3.4 Differences between Web and CATI

To ensure that the questionnaires for Web and CATI were identical, the telephone team conducted the interview using the Web version of the questionnaire. The only differences were:

- A slightly different routing for questions on income
- Module R (evaluation of questions by interviewer) was not included in the Web version
- The answer category ‘don’t know’ was used very sparingly in the questionnaire, and where it was used, the CATI interviewer was requested to not prompt the respondent by reading out the category in order to minimize use of this answer category.

4 Fieldwork

4.1 Anchor sample

The NKPS in its fourth wave targeted the general population of the Netherlands aged 18 to 79 at the time of Wave 1 ($N = 8,161$)⁴, excluding residents of institutions, nursing homes, old people's homes and holiday homes and people without permanent residence status. This group is referred to as the 'Main sample'. In the first and second wave an oversample of the four largest migrant groups in the Netherlands (Turks, Moroccans, Surinamese and Antilleans) aged 18 to 79 at Wave 1 ($N = 1,403$) was part of the Anchor sample. This group has been referred to as the 'Migrant sample'. In Waves 3 and 4, this Migrant sample was no longer part of the study because of low to very low response rates in the earlier waves. The fieldwork of Wave 4 among the respondents from the Main sample (hereafter referred to as 'sample') was carried out by Growth for Knowledge Panel Services (GfK PS) and USP Marketing Consultancy.

4.2 Tracking down sample members

In the period since the third wave, respondents were encouraged to report a residential relocation. Change-of-address cards were included in mailings, and respondents were also informed about the option of entering new address information in a form constructed for that purpose on the NKPS-website.

Because the fourth wave of the NKPS was planned to be conducted primarily by Web and in order to reduce costs, the addresses in the NKPS-database were not validated in advance as had been done in previous waves of data collection. Instead, all possible modes of contact were employed during the various phases of data collection. Thus, respondents were invited to participate by mail, by phone, and by e-mail. In case multiple phone numbers or e-mail addresses were available, each one was used to increase the chance of reaching the respondent. More information on the various phases of contact can be found in section 4.5.2.

⁴ Wave 1 also included a so-called substitute sample, a group of 1,604 respondents who filled in an abridged, self-completion version of the interview-questionnaire (for details, see section 6.2.2 of the 1.0 version of the Wave 1 codebook). The substitute sample was not included in Waves 2, 3 and 4.

4.3 Pilot

Because of previous experience in collecting data using Web, and the fact that the structure of the questionnaire remained largely unchanged, no pilot was conducted at the start of the fourth wave of data collection. Instead, a test-file including 90 fictional profiles was created and used by NKPS team members and GfK PS to check the questionnaire on the correctness of the questions, as well as on the routings.

4.4 Interviews

4.4.1 Selection of interviewers for CATI

For the CATI interviews, GfK PS collaborated with USP Marketing Consultancy. USP is an independent and ISO9001 certified research agency that manages its own call center that consists of 50 fully automated workspaces. USP carefully selects their interviewers on a number of criteria, which include having affinity with (market) research, good communication skills, mastery of the Dutch language, a pleasant phone manner, the ability to think pro-actively, being persuasive, and having a positive attitude. After this first round of selection, each interviewer receives additional in-house training by following a nine-course training module that covers topics such as the use of registration and interview programs, making appointments efficiently, handling refusals, collecting data objectively, how to use one's voice effectively (tempo, pitch, and articulation), and general knowledge on research, samples, target groups, and interviewing. For the NKPS, a total of 25 interviewers were selected for the CATI interviews. These interviewers were selected on the basis of previous achievements in other research projects and their experience with studies similar to the NKPS. During the call sessions at the call center, a minimum of 2 to 3 supervisors was always present. Only interviewers who had participated in the training session (see section 4.4.2) were allowed to conduct the interviews.

4.4.2 Training sessions and materials

To prepare for the training session, each interviewer was provided with written instructions to read in advance. The structure and content of the training session was designed by GfK PS in cooperation with the NKPS team members. The program consisted of a morning session in which background information on the NKPS was provided and the rationale underlying the interview questionnaire was explained. Three priorities were emphasized during the training session: (a) achieving a high and non-selective response, (b) receiving Anchor's permission to be contacted for participation in a possible fifth wave, and (c) receiving Anchor's permission to link the survey data to registry data (see section 2.3). Besides these three priorities, special attention was devoted to the structure and contents of the questionnaire.

After these instructions, the interviewers were asked to practice the questionnaire to become acquainted with key questions and the complexity of the questionnaire. They were provided with a sample of 986 respondents whose data were uploaded into the questionnaires to create a realistic practice situation. The results of the practicing were saved and passed on to the fieldwork department to be evaluated. The 986 sample interviews were also used to verify whether the systems of USP loaded and saved the information from the interviews correctly, and whether automated e-mails were sent out in the correct manner. The evaluation showed that the procedures worked well.

4.5 Data collection

The main elements of the data collection among respondents involved: approaching them in successive phases, including re-contacting those who had not yet taken part; intensive monitoring and registration of the fieldwork progress; an incentive program for the respondents; and monitoring of the interviewers by their supervisors. The intention was to administer the large majority of questionnaires using Web. CATI was offered to respondents only at a later stage of the contact phase, in case respondents were unable or refused to participate via Web.

4.5.1 Letters to the respondent

Correspondence with respondents took various forms. The first contact was through a personalized introductory letter (see Appendix 1) in which respondents were informed about the fourth wave of the NKPS. A short URL to the questionnaire was included in this letter, as well as a unique password for the respondent to log into his or her personalized questionnaire. The letter also directed respondents to the NKPS website and referred to the toll-free telephone number of the NKPS Helpdesk and the NKPS e-mail address. These initial personalized letters were printed on NKPS writing paper, signed by Professor Pearl Dykstra, and sent in a NKPS envelope.

Two days after sending the letter, a personalized e-mail was sent to those respondents for whom an e-mail address was known. Similar to the introductory letter, the e-mail informed the respondent about the fourth wave of the NKPS, but substituted the URL and password for a direct link to the personalized questionnaire. Again, attention was drawn to the NKPS website, the toll-free telephone number of the NKPS Helpdesk, and the NKPS e-mail address. The e-mails included the NKPS logo, were sent from the NKPS e-mail address, and signed by Professor Pearl Dykstra.

4.5.2 Contact phases

Potential respondents were contacted in two phases. During the first phase of the fourth wave, all respondents were invited to participate in the NKPS via a Web questionnaire. This phase was started with an introductory letter (see Appendix 1) to announce the fourth wave of the fieldwork. For those respondents for whom an e-mail address was known, an e-mail with a direct link to the personalized questionnaire was sent two days later. Both letter and e-mail indicated that questionnaires could be completed by telephone at a later point in time. One week after sending the first e-mail, a reminder was sent by e-mail to those who had not yet completed their questionnaire.

In the second phase of the fourth wave, which started one week after sending the first reminder by e-mail, interviewers at the call center of USP started to contact respondents by telephone⁵. There were at least 10 initial attempts to contact the respondent. Contact was sought at different times of the day, different days of the week (i.e., on weekdays and during the weekend), and in different weeks. If the interviewer was able to reach the respondent, he or she was kindly asked to complete the questionnaire by Web, or was offered the option to complete the questionnaire through a phone interview (CATI) at a suitable time in the next few weeks. When respondents agreed to participate by Web, a new e-mail with the direct link to the personalized questionnaire was sent to the respondent.

Respondents who subsequently did not complete the questionnaire, either by Web or through CATI, were sent a final (third) reminder by e-mail – which was about 8 weeks after the first moment of contact by letter. In case a respondent had started a Web questionnaire, but had difficulty completing it, he or she was offered the option to complete the rest of the questionnaire using CATI.

While the third reminder was originally planned to be final, the research team decided to approach a number of respondents who had started their questionnaire (and had often completed a considerable part), but had failed to complete the rest of the questionnaire before the initial deadline of data collection one more time. These respondents ($n = 104$) were again approached by telephone, and finally – if no contact by telephone could be made – were sent a reminder by email. Because the fieldwork of the interviewers at USP had ended by that time, respondents could no longer complete their questionnaire using CATI, but were kindly asked to do so by Web.

⁵ For a small number of respondents ($n = 6$), no telephone number was known. Instead of approaching them by telephone, a second reminder was sent by e-mail.

4.5.3 Registration of contacts

During the second phase of contact, interviewers had to log the result of their contacts with each respondent on a contact form. The NKPS offered interviewers the following response options:

1. Respondent would be willing to participate through CAPI
2. Respondent had agreed to participate, but failed to do so
3. Refusal
4. Respondent passed away
5. Incorrect telephone number
6. Respondent cannot be traced
7. No one answering telephone
8. Made an appointment for a telephone call, but no one answering
9. Physically unable to participate
10. Other, namely ...

Follow-up screen to refusal (option 3):

- Can't be bothered/no time
- Refusal during interview
- Hangs up
- Refusal after hearing name of study/research institute
- Interview takes too much time
- Questions too difficult
- Refusal at GfK/NIDI
- Other

All contact information was entered on the contact form. The contact forms served as a tool for the interviewers. The following information was logged for each initial contact:

- Date: day of the week and time of day
- Result of the initial contact.

Other information that could be added by the interviewer, included:

- In the event of an appointment: date and time of appointment
- In the event of refusal: reason for refusal
- If the Anchor was temporarily impossible to reach: the reason why this is so
- In the event of incorrect address: reason why address is incorrect
- New address/telephone number (if traced)
- The incentive value (see section 4.5.4)

4.5.4 Incentive program

At all phases of contact, respondents were informed that those who successfully completed their interview were going to be included in a random draw to win 1 of 3 iPads. Personal incentives were not offered to the respondents during the first phase of contact. During the second phase, when respondents who had not yet participated were approached by telephone, an incentive of 10 Euros was offered. These respondents were presented with the option of receiving a gift certificate or of having the money donated to charity if they had completed their interview. During the second contacting phase, interviewers were given the freedom to offer some respondents more than others, up to 15 Euros, in order to optimize response.

4.5.5 Helpdesk

During the fieldwork of the fourth wave, GfK PS provided a helpdesk which could be reached by Telephone (toll-free, 0800) during office hours. A helpdesk program had been developed to process callers' reactions. The program was similar to the one used in Wave 3 and consisted of a spreadsheet which included frequently asked questions, arguments to convince potential respondents to take part (if they had previously refused) and the possibility of recording callers' reactions. In the event of a refusal, the Helpdesk recorded the reason and did their best to counter the reason with relevant arguments in order to convince the respondent to participate despite an initial refusal.

As in Wave 3, most contacts to the helpdesk were to change or cancel an appointment. Some respondents also called to indicate that they did not want to participate in the fourth wave of the NKPS. Others called with questions concerning how to fill in the Web questionnaire. Finally, respondents called to ask when and how they would receive their incentives.

4.6 Quality control

During the second phase of the fieldwork, interviewers were monitored by their supervisors to ensure that the way in which they contacted respondents and conducted their interviews met required standards. The supervisors listened in on a random sample of conversations of each interviewer. Particular attention was paid to their speed (they needed to contact a sufficient number of respondents per week), response rate, quality of initial contact, and quality of interviewing. If the supervisor felt this was needed, interviewers were instructed to reenroll in the relevant course from the in-house training module.

The NKPS project leader at the Erasmus University and the GfK project leader had biweekly contact via e-mail to discuss procedures and progress. Moreover, the NKPS project leader received regular overviews on response, differentiated by interview-mode, the registration of contacts, and the tracking down of sample members.

5 Outcomes fieldwork

5.1 Progress

The fieldwork for the fourth wave of the NKPS took place between June 2014 and December 2014. The fieldwork resulted in 2,832 completed questionnaires with usable data⁶. Figure 5.1 shows the progress of the fieldwork over time, with a differentiation by mode of interview.

5.1.1 Web & CATI

Given the positive experience with Web questionnaires in Wave 2 and Wave 3, as well as for cost-saving reasons and the possibility of boosting response, the NKPS team decided to conduct the fourth wave mainly via Web. Nonetheless, to avoid possible selectivity issues, CATI was offered to those who were unable to, or uncomfortable about completing the questionnaire via Web. As described in section 4.5.2, this was done only in the second phase of contact, which started two weeks after sending out the first invitation by letter. Consequently, no CATI interviews were conducted in weeks 24 and 25 (which is also reflected in Figure 5.1). Similarly, no CATI interviews were completed after week 37, when the fieldwork of the interviewers had ended.

⁶ In addition, 88 respondents started their Web questionnaire, but did not finish it completely. These 88 partially completed questionnaires are included in the data release as a separate file. All figures in this chapter are based on respondents who fully completed their questionnaire only.

The portal to the Web questionnaires was left operational after week 37 allowing respondents to still participate or finish the interviews they already started. From week 38 to 44, about two respondents completed their interview each week via Web. As described in section 4.5.2, respondents who had started filling in their questionnaire (and had often completed a considerable part), but had failed to finish before the initial deadline of data collection, were re-contacted by phone or e-mail and kindly asked to complete the rest of the interview. This resulted in an additional 17 completed interviews. The final number of realized interviews is given in Table 5.1.

Table 5.1 Completed interviews, by method of data collection

	N	%
CATI	368	13

Total	2832

5.1.2 Average duration

Interviews lasted on average 52 minutes. Among respondents who took part via Web, the interview lasted on average 53 minutes, via CATI the average was 42 minutes. Besides mode of interview, the length of the interview varied depending on the size of the Anchor's family and the complexity of their family relationships, which is in turn associated with divorce and remarriage among parents and/or among the respondents themselves. The length of the interview also depended on the changes that had taken place in family relationships between waves. If children had been born or relationships had ended, more time was needed to conduct the interview than if relationships and personal circumstances of respondents had remained the same.

5.1.3 Evaluation

The interviewer evaluated the course of each CATI interview after completion. Questions concerned the general atmosphere during the interview and problems of understanding. Less than two percent of the CATI interviews were rated as 'unpleasant' or 'very unpleasant'. In 26 cases interviewers documented special circumstances related to the lives of Anchors that might have influenced the answers that were given. Examples of these circumstances are serious illnesses of respondents, recently deceased family members, and problematic family histories. Variables DR114_1 and DR114_2 in the dataset identify such respondents. Anchors' responses to special requests might also be viewed as a form of evaluation. One special request involved whether respondents would be willing to participate in a fifth wave. Six percent of respondents stated that they did not want to be re-contacted. A second special request involved asking permission to combine data gathered about them in the NKPS with data compiled by Statistics Netherlands: 84 % of the Anchors granted permission to do so.

5.2 Response rates and interview mode

5.2.1 Response rates interview questionnaire Anchors

Table 5.2 provides information on both the response and retention rates for Anchors. Overall rates as well as cooperation rates are shown. Overall response rates depend on whether or not a respondent could be reached. Cooperation rates take into account only those respondents who were actually contacted. Besides ‘not reached’, the categories ‘too ill’ and ‘other’ (e.g. deceased, moved abroad) are counted as non-contact.

The Wave 4 overall retention rate is 64.5%. This retention rate is calculated as the percentage of Wave 3 respondents who completed the Wave 4 interview. Of the Anchors that were reached, 22.6% refused to participate, completed their interview only partially, or informed the interviewer that they would participate via Web but failed to do so.

Table 5.2 also shows response rates, which are only based on those respondents who were actually in the Wave 4 sample. People who, for instance, died or moved abroad before Wave 4 (0.9 %) were excluded from these calculations. The overall response rate is 65.2 %, which is lower than the overall response rates in Wave 2 (79.0 %) and Wave 3 (74.2 %). The further drop in response rates can be explained by the exclusion of CAPI in Wave 4, as well as the greater time span between Wave 3 and Wave 4 (3 years and 4 months) compared to previous follow up waves (2 years and 8 months and 2 years and 10 months for Wave 2 and Wave 3 respectively). Moreover, the Wave 4 fieldwork lasted just 3 months at first (see section 4.5.2), as opposed to 10 months in Wave 2 and 11 months in Wave 3.

5.2.2 Differences in response rates Anchors

Table 5.3 and Table 5.4 show the results from binary logistic regression analyses predicting various reasons for non-response in Wave 4. The results show to what extent respondents with certain characteristics were more or less likely to show non-response than others. Two sets of analyses were carried out: one with all respondents who participated in the first wave (Table 5.3), and one with the respondents who were still participating in Wave 3 (Table 5.4).

While women were less likely to be non-respondents than men in the second and third waves (see the previous codebooks of Wave 2 and Wave 3, but also Table 5.3), this selective non-response by gender has disappeared among those who were still in the sample at Wave 3 (see Table 5.4). Likewise, those respondents who were living in urbanized areas are no longer more likely to be non-respondents. However, respondents who lived in an urban area at Wave 3 were less likely to be non-respondents at Wave 4 due to a serious illness or death. Whereas one's psychological health at Wave 1 was a factor of influence for future non-response, for those respondents who were still in the study at Wave 3, non-response was instead affected by the level of life satisfaction, with those reporting higher levels of life satisfaction at Wave 3 being less likely to be non-respondents at Wave 4. It appears this is mainly caused by a reduced likelihood to have relocated between waves.

With respect to age, the youngest age group at Wave 3 no longer significantly differed from the reference age group (36-45 years at Wave 3) on the likelihood to be non-respondents, although those respondents who were aged 18 to 30 years at Wave 1 were still more likely to have dropped out in the total time span between Wave 1 and Wave 4. Respondents who were aged 46 to 65 years at Wave 3 were significantly less likely to drop out, whereas those aged 65 and over were more likely to be non-respondents due to a serious illness or death. Compared to cohabiters, respondents who were single or in a LAT relationship during the Wave 3 interview were more likely to show non-response, whereas the married were less likely to be non-respondents, but only when a relocation was the cause for non-response. When looking at the partner status at Wave 1, only the single had a higher likelihood to be non-respondents, not those who were in a LAT relationship at the time of the Wave 1 interview.

Those with lower levels of educational attainment were more likely to be non-respondents than were the highly educated. This pattern was revealed, irrespective of the cause of non-response, or the period considered (i.e., Wave 1 to Wave 4 or Wave 3 to Wave 4). Compared to employed respondents, unemployed respondents were more likely to be non-respondents (because of refusal). Respondents who were not part of the labor force (e.g., retired, housewives) were more likely to be a non-respondent due to serious illness or death, but less likely to be non-respondent due to a relocation. Finally, the Wave 1 and Wave 3 interview experiences predicted non-response: The more pleasant the interviewer evaluated the interview, the less likely non-response was. If the respondent had completed a self-completion questionnaire at Wave 1, he or she was more likely to remain a respondent at the time of the fourth wave.

To account for the selectivity in non-response, an additional weight called DWEIGHT2 has been constructed. Please refer to section 6.2.2 for details on this and other weights.

5.3 Representativity Wave 4 sample

5.3.1 Distribution by background characteristics

To what extent is the realized sample of Anchors at Wave 4 still representative of the population at large at the start of the first wave (2003)? We compared the distribution of selected characteristics among Wave 4 respondents to 2003 data from Statistics Netherlands for the non-institutionalized population in the 18 to 79 years age range. The selected characteristics were: sex, age, household composition, level of urbanization, and region of the country. In the analysis reported below, Wave 4 sample data were corrected for sample design effects (i.e. the fact that the NKPS is based on an address sample rather than a person sample, see section 7.2.1 of version 1 of the Wave 1 codebook). Tables 5.6 through 5.10 show the distribution of characteristics for (a) the Wave 4 sample, and (b) the population in 2003.

5.3.2 Distribution by sex

The distribution by sex (see Table 5.5) in the Wave 4 sample clearly differed from that in the comparison population, as was the case in earlier waves. Men were under-represented by about 10 percentage points.

Table 5.5 Distribution by sex for the population and the realized Wave 4 sample

	Wave 4 sample	Population	Wave 4 sample/population
Sex	%	%
Men	40.0	49.8	0.80
Women	60.0	50.2	1.20

5.3.3 Distribution by age

Table 5.6 shows the age distribution of the realized samples and the comparison population for men and women. The table shows an over-representation of people who were in the middle age ranges at the time of the first wave, although this differed somewhat between men and women. The observed under-representation of age ranges 20 to 30 years in Wave 1 had increased in Wave 4. As we have already shown in 0, this was mostly due to younger respondents being more likely to be non-respondents in the follow-up waves. For men, those aged 40 to 64 years at Wave 1 were over-represented, while for women those aged 30 to 59 years at Wave 1 were over-represented. Finally, for both men and women, those aged 65 to 79 years at Wave 1 were under-represented.

5.3.4 Distribution by household status

Focusing on the distribution by household status, we see differences and commonalities between the Wave 4 sample and the comparison population (see Table 5.7). Men and women living alone, with their parents and those in the ‘other’ category (e.g., sibling households, three-generation households) were under-represented. The married, and those living with children were well-represented in the sample. Participation in the NKPS seems to have appealed most to those in ‘traditional’ family arrangements. One remarkable exception to this general rule exists, however; men who were single parents were, like in Wave 3, over-represented, even though this group was under-represented in Waves 1 and 2.

5.3.5 Distribution by level of urbanization

Table 5.8 shows that, as in Wave 1, the distribution of the realized sample by level of urbanization of the area of residence resembled that of the comparison population quite closely. Persons residing in highly urban and highly rural areas were to a limited extent under-represented.

Table 5.8 Distribution by level of urbanization for the population and the realized sample

Urbanization	Wave 4 sample	Population	Wave 4 sample / population

(3)	20.6	20.0	1.03
(4)	22.0	20.0	1.10
(5) Highly rural	12.7	13.2	0.96

5.3.6 Distribution by region

The regional distribution of the realized sample quite closely mirrored the population figures. Respondents in the South and East were somewhat over-represented whereas respondents from the West were somewhat under-represented. The proportions were similar to those reported in Wave 1.

Table 5.9 Distribution by region for the population and the realized Wave 4 sample

Region	Wave 4 sample %	Population %	Wave 4 sample / population %

West	40.6	47.3	0.86

5.4 Types of data collection in Wave 4

In NKPS Wave 4, two modes of data collection were used. Respondents were first asked to participate in the survey by completing the questionnaire via Web. If they did not fill out the questionnaire within two weeks they were approached by phone and again kindly asked to complete the interview using the Web questionnaire. At this moment, respondents were also offered the option to participate in a Computer Assisted Telephone Interview (CATI mode), in case the Web questionnaire caused difficulties for the respondent. Computer Assisted Personal Interviewing (CAPI) was no longer offered as an alternative to respondents. Among the reasons for dropping CAPI and encouraging Web were cost savings and the possibility of boosting response among selected categories (e.g. men in younger age groups). Figure 5.1 page 21 showed the final distribution of respondents across the two modes: More than five out of six respondents (87 %) filled in the questionnaire on the Web, while less than a sixth (13 %) of the respondents completed their questionnaire via a telephone interview.

A potential disadvantage of offering two modes is that the answers that respondents provide may depend on survey mode. For instance, respondents may be less likely to provide socially desirable answers on the Web than in CATI mode, as the ‘presence’ of a telephone interviewer may incline the respondent to provide answers that meet the expected approval of the interviewer.⁷ Another reason for mode differences is that visual cues, like the visual presentation of answering categories, cannot be implemented in CATI, whereas it is possible to do so in Web mode (by presenting answering categories on the screen). Matters are complicated even further by the fact that respondents may partially self-select the mode in which the survey is taken. The consequences of self-selection may be severe. For instance, suppose that people who are lonely are more likely to opt for CATI mode than for Web mode. If, at the same time, Web mode makes respondents more prone to disclose loneliness than CATI mode, the difference in loneliness between Web and CATI respondents – and thus the mode effect – is underestimated.⁸

To examine whether self-selection into survey mode is important, we performed a logistic regression analysis with the choice for CATI (1 = yes) as the dependent variable and the same set of (Wave 3) predictor variables that was used to examine panel attrition. The results of this analysis are presented in Table 5.10.

⁸ De Leeuw, E.D. (2005). To mix or not to mix data collection modes in surveys. Journal of Official Statistics, 21(2), 233–255

The results show that the strongest effects on the choice of mode were related to standard socio-demographic characteristics, like sex, age, partner status, level of education and employment status. Women were more likely than men to opt for CATI rather than for Web. Given the initial choice between modes at first contact, i.e. Web, a possible interpretation is that women were generally somewhat less likely than men to fill in the questionnaire on the Web, but compensate for this by being more willing to participate in a CATI interview. Respondents above the age of 65 were clearly less likely to answer the questionnaire by Web, as were respondents who were single at Wave 3. The educational differences show that Web in particular showed a strong educational gradient with the higher educated having a much higher likelihood to fill out the questionnaire on the Web than respondents with a lower level of education. Respondents who are not part of the labor force are more likely to opt for CATI than employed respondents. The results in Table 5.10 also show that the effects of more subjective characteristics like the attendance of religious services, life satisfaction, psychological health and family relationship quality on the choice of mode are absent. Likewise, whether the previous Wave 3 CAPI or CATI interview was evaluated as ‘(very) pleasant’ by the interviewer did not affect the likelihood to participate in a CATI instead of a Web interview.

These results show that self-selection effects are evident, but are mainly limited to standard socio-demographic characteristics. This raises the question how to deal with ‘genuine’ and self-selection mode effects in analyses. While recent studies have presented methods to disentangle selection from mode effects⁹, as well as estimations of the size of these effects¹⁰, advice on how to deal with such effects is not as evident. A recent study, using NKPS Wave 3 data, suggested that propensity score matching methods¹¹ in combination with SEM constitute a promising avenue¹⁰. However, such methods are very complicated. A simpler method is to include both a mode indicator and the socio-demographic and other variables (the latter preferably derived from the first, face-to-face wave of the NKPS) that are related to selection into specific modes as control variables in multivariate analyses. Although such an approach may still lead to biased estimators of the effects of interest, it will probably lead to a strong reduction of potential biases.

6.1 Variable names

6.1.1 Method of construction

For the fourth wave, the same name giving scheme as in previous waves was used. However, due to changes in the questionnaires between the waves, some modifications needed to be made with respect to the assignment of question numbers in the questionnaires. The research team decided that:

- If a question in Wave 4 was identical or almost identical to a question in Wave 3, the variable name of the question in Wave 4 was assigned the same question number as in Wave 3. Whether a question was identical or nearly identical can be discerned from the labeling of the variable: If the question was identical, the label ends with ‘(Wave 1/2/3 variable names)’, for example ‘(a/b/cb201)’. If the question was nearly identical, the label ends with ‘(cf. Wave 1/2/3 variable names)’, for example ‘(cf. a/b/cc703)’.
- If one of the original questions from Wave 3 was deleted in Wave 4, the question number was dropped in Wave 4, and the question numbers of subsequent questions were left untouched. For example, if question number 34 from the self-completion module in Wave 3 was dropped, the variable names in Wave 4 were in the following order: DS33, DS35.

6.1.2 Construction of old and new Alters

The fourth wave resulted in a number of ‘new’ Alters. The category of new Alters comprises: new ex-partners, new partners, new parents-in-law, new children, and new partners of parents. To identify these new Alters in the X-module, the following letter combinations were assigned:

- | | |
|----|---|
| FP | Information provided about the new current partner of the father of Anchor ¹² |
| MP | Information provided about the new current partner of the mother of Anchor ¹² |
| P3 | Information provided about the Wave 3 LAT-partner of Anchor, with whom the Anchor continued to maintain a separate household after Wave 3 ¹³ |

¹² Note that information on the current partner of the father is only asked for new partners with whom the father had no relationship at Wave 3. Thus, although the same suffix is used, the information does not relate to the same Alter.

¹³ Note that the Wave 3 partner might be an ex-partner at Wave 4. The variable DNEWPART can be used to verify this.

- P4 Information provided about the new LAT-partner of Anchor, in case the Anchor started a new LAT-partner relationship after Wave 3
- FL4 Information provided about the father of the new partner of Anchor at Wave 4
- ML4 Information provided about the mother of the new partner of Anchor at Wave 4
- N21-24 New children reported in Wave 4

As in Wave 3, no questions on new Alters were asked in Module G.

6.2 Constructed variables

6.2.1 Demographics

A set of constructed variables, similar to the constructed variables added in Waves 1, 2 and 3, was added to the data file. No new constructed variables were introduced in the third Wave. Please refer to the descriptive statistics in Appendix 5 for a complete list of the constructed variables. [All constructed variables are positioned at the beginning of the dataset.]

6.2.2 Weights

For the construction of the Wave 4 weights, the procedure was similar to that used in Waves 1, 2, and 3. Three weights were constructed: DWEIGHT0, DWEIGHT1, and DWEIGHT2.

The first weight, DWEIGHT0, takes into account that at Wave 1, a random sample of households (addresses) was taken rather than a random sample of individuals. This weight variable, which takes the design into consideration, basically converts the sample into an individual sample. Please note that for constructing this variable, information on the number of persons in the household at Wave 1 was used, instead of the number of persons in the household at Wave 4, because any design effects for which one wants to control have occurred at the first wave of data collection.

The second weight, DWEIGHT1, adjusts the sample to an individual sample AND adjusts the sample distribution of household type, sex, age, region, and urbanization, to population figures at Wave 1. Using the iterative raking procedure from the –survwgt– package in Stata¹⁴, a weight factor was obtained that makes the marginal distributions of each variable equal to those in the population at Wave 1. The resulting weight factor is a so-called analytical weight, meaning that the total sample size is unchanged when the data are weighted (i.e., not inflated to population size). Again, because the aim was to make the sample representative to the distributions at the start of data collection (i.e. Wave 1), the characteristics of the respondents at Wave 1 were used, instead of the characteristics at Wave 4, when constructing DWEIGHT1.

The third weight, DWEIGHT2, is in its construction, as well as substantively, similar to DWEIGHT1, with the exception that it adds an adjustment to the sample with respect to characteristics associated with selective non-response. As reported in Table 5.3, there was a positive selection bias from Wave 1 to Wave 4 of church members, those with a better psychological health, better family relationships, the middle aged, the higher educated, and the employed. Moreover, the married were more likely to remain respondents over time, while singles had a higher likelihood of dropping out. Because DWEIGHT1 already adjusts the sample to Wave 1 population figures with respect to gender, age, and household type (which includes information on partnership status), there is no need to include these characteristics again when constructing DWEIGHT2. Thus, DWEIGHT2 takes into account that the Wave 4 sample shows a selection bias with respect to (Wave 1) church membership, psychological health, educational level, and employment status when compared to the distributions of these characteristics for the Wave 1 sample, on top of the adjustments for sample design (DWEIGHT0) AND representation for the total sample at Wave 1 (DWEIGHT1).¹⁵ For the construction of DWEIGHT2, the iterative raking procedure from the –survwgt– package in Stata¹⁶ was used.

6.2.3 Occupations

Compared to the third wave, the verbal descriptions of occupations were no longer coded using a built-in occupational classification table. Instead, all occupations were manually coded into the 1992 CBS classification using the SBC application available from the CBS website¹⁷ afterwards.

For a large proportion of occupations, the 1992 CBS classification differentiates various levels (and codes) within a single occupation, varying from ‘lower’ to ‘scientific’. If this was the case, extra attention was paid to the description that the respondent provided, to ¹⁵ Please note that no weight is constructed to adjust the Wave 4 sample for selective non-response from Wave 3 to Wave 4. Consequently, if the user only wants to use the third and fourth Waves of data collection, the user must always combine the use of DWEIGHT2 for the Wave 4 data with the use of CWEIGHT2 for the Wave 3 data. If the user fails to do so, and only weights the Wave 4 data with DWEIGHT2, the distribution of the Wave 3 data will not match with those of the Wave 4 data on the characteristics for which selective non-response was found to exist.

¹⁶ See note 14.

assess whether a level could be assigned to the respondent's occupation. An additional variable with the suffix 'Q' (i.e., DM206Q) has been constructed to indicate a) whether the 1992 CBS classification differentiated various levels for the particular occupation that was described by the respondent, and b) whether the description gave enough clues to assign a level to the occupation. If the description provided insufficient cues, the level, or category 'znd' ('zonder nadere differentiatie' which translates into 'without further differentiation') was used. Alternatively, if the description of the occupation by the respondent did not provide enough clues to assign a level, but the description of the occupation was exactly the same as the description provided in Wave 3, the same occupational code was used in Wave 4. Variable DM206Q indicates if the Wave 3 occupational code was used. If an occupation, despite all our efforts, could not be coded, it was given a value of -1 and declared missing.

After the occupations were coded into the 1992 CBS classification, the occupations were recoded into a status scale. We opted for the well-known international socio-economic index (ISEI) of occupations, which is to be quoted as:

Ganzeboom, H.B.G., De Graaf, P.M., & Treiman, D.J. (1992).

A standard international socio-economic index of occupational status.

Social Science Research, 21, 1-56.

Recodes were done using the modules made available by Ganzeboom.¹⁸ The data contain both the CBS codes and the ISEI codes, but the original strings were deleted from the public release file (these are available upon request). As recoding the CBS codes to the ISEI88 codes involved an additional recode to ISCO88, this additional scale is made available to the user as well. Information on the differences between the ISEI and ISCO scales can be found in the reference provided above.

Recently, the ISCO88 has been updated to reflect the changing economies of countries. The research team decided to include this new ISCO-08¹⁹ coding in the public release file, along with the ISEI08²⁰ scale that can be derived from the ISCO-08 coding. In a future update, the ISCO-08 and ISEI08 codes will be added to the public release file of the third wave data as well.

Below is a list of occupational information included in the Wave 4 data.

6.2.4 Geographic information

In Wave 4, the following geographic information was collected:

- address of current place of residence of Anchor (variables DPLACRES, DCOUNRES, DGEMRES, DPROVRES, DURBRES, DZIPX, DZIPY)
- addresses of current places of residence of Alters²¹ (variables DX602B_, DX602D_, DX602G_, DX602P_, DX602U_, DX602X_, DX602Y_), including:
 - father of Anchor (suffix F)
 - mother of Anchor (suffix M)
 - LAT-partner already present at Wave 3 (suffix P3)
 - new LAT-partner at Wave 4 (suffix P4)
 - father of new partner at Wave 4 (suffix FL4)
 - mother of new partner at Wave 4 (suffix ML4)
 - children of Anchor (suffixes C, D, N, N1, and N2)
 - siblings of Anchor (suffixes S, T, and U)

²¹ Geographic information was not collected for people living in the Anchor's home. If the Alter is not a new Alter (see section 6.1.2), and the Alter did not move after Wave 3 (see variable DX601), missing geographic information at Wave 4 was substituted with geographic information from Wave 3. If the geographic information at Wave 3 is missing as well, this is indicated in variable DX601 with value 6 'Alter did not move, and did not share household with anchor at Wave 3, but geographic info at Wave 3 is missing'.

- addresses of Alters when temporarily away from current place of residence (variables DX705B_, DX705D_, DX705G_, DX705P_, DX705U_, DX705X_, DX705Y_), including:
 - father of Anchor (suffix F)
 - mother of Anchor (suffix M)
 - children of Anchor (suffixes C, D, N, N1, and N2)
 - siblings of Anchor (suffixes S, T, and U)

As in the previous waves, a set of geographic codes was assigned to the postal codes: place of residence (suffix B), country of residence (suffix D), municipality (suffix G), province (suffix P), degree of urbanization of the municipality (suffix U), and X and Y coordinates (suffixes X and Y). Geographic codes were not added for people living in the Anchor's home. If a family member was living in the same household as Anchor at Wave 3, and the family member did not move between Wave 3 and Wave 4, but the Anchor did move out of the household, missing information on the geographic information of the family member was substituted with the geographic information of the Anchor at Wave 3. If such an event occurred, variable DX601 of the respective family member was recoded from 1 'No' [Alter did not move], into 5 'Alter did not move, but shared household with Anchor, and Anchor moved out'. If an address is located outside of the Netherlands, no information on the municipality, province, degree of urbanization, and X and Y coordinates is provided.

The list of places of residence was the same as in the third wave. Compared to Wave 1 and Wave 2, the third and fourth waves included 10 new places, which were not added alphabetically to the existing list, but were instead added at the end of the list (value numbers 2451 through 2460). For variables containing information on municipalities, CBS codes of municipalities existing on January 1, 2014 were used. The degree of urbanization is the CBS address density of the municipality in the year 2014, using the same 5 answer categories as in previous waves (1 = 'Very strongly urbanized ($\geq 2500 \text{ addr/km}^2$ '); 5 = 'Not urbanized ($< 500 \text{ addr/km}^2$ ')').

The X and Y coordinates were derived from the Rijksdriehoeksmeting (RD; Netherlands National System). This system is measured in meters and has its (0,0) point in France. The implication is that (a) coordinates are always positive and (b) for any given point, the Y coordinate is always larger than the X coordinate.

The majority of geographic information was coded on the basis of the 6-digit postal codes. If only the first 4 digits of the postal codes were known, the coordinates for the centroid of the 4-digit postal code were taken; these were provided by Kadaster, the Dutch Cadastre, Land Registry, and national mapping agency. If the postal code was unknown, the coordinates for the centroid of the municipality were taken. These were provided by the Department of Geography, Planning and Development Studies of the University of Amsterdam for the second wave and again used for the fourth wave. For municipalities that were newly formed after the third wave, the coordinates for the centroid were provided by Kadaster instead.

As in the third wave, new sources of information available on the internet were used for the X and Y coordinates²². For some postal codes, this source of information was outdated (e.g., newly built neighborhoods). The X and Y coordinates of these new postal codes were provided by Kadaster. Given the difference in source, the coordinates of the same addresses/postal codes may differ a few meters between the third and fourth wave. However, this is not likely to affect our variables, as all coordinates are rounded to hundred meters (for privacy reasons) and are provided in kilometers.

Distances in kilometers in a straight line can be calculated using Pythagoras's theorem. For example, distance from Anchor's home to mother's home in SPSS syntax language:
`compute dist = sqrt(((czipx - cx602xm)2) + ((czipy - cx602ym)2)).`

6.3 Matching Alter information across waves, modules and questionnaires

In Wave 4, as in previous waves, Anchors provided detailed information about Alters (family members). What adds to the complexity of these Alter data is that they are scattered across modules of the questionnaire. Users of the NKPS dataset will want to match information on specific Alters from these different modules and questionnaires. This section provides a description of how to perform such matching operations. Attention will be paid to the nature of the Alters in Wave 4; to what extent they were already present in earlier waves, and to how to link Alter data from Wave 4 to Alter data from previous waves. In addition, the general procedure to match Alter information across modules of the Anchor questionnaire within Wave 4 is described.

In Wave 4, information on the same family members (Alters) was collected on whom information was also collected in Waves 1, Wave 2, and Wave 3. As in Wave 3, no information was collected on non-family members. In general, in Wave 4 the same conventions were used that were developed for Waves 1 through 3 (see section 8.4 of the Wave 1 Codebook and sections 6.1.2 of the Wave 2 and Wave 3 Codebooks for details). For instance, demographic information on siblings was stored within the X-module. As Anchors had up to 22 siblings, their information was stored in variables that have S1-S9 (for the nine oldest siblings), T1-T9 (for the next nine siblings) and U1-U4 (for the last four siblings) as their last two characters. In

²² <http://www.digischool.nl/ak/postcode/>; <http://www.simontex.nl/nak/kavels/xy.php>; and <http://www.postcodedata.nl/>

Wave 4 the same logic was used, so data on sibling S2 in Wave 1, on sibling S2 in Wave 2, on sibling S2 in Wave 3, and on sibling S2 in Wave 4 all refer to the same sibling. The same logic applies to data collected on a subset of Alters in Module G. For instance, data on support exchanges between Anchor and Child A collected in Waves 1 through 3 can directly be compared to data on these same issues in Wave 4. In all instances, variables relating to child A have KA as their last two characters. Below, we will describe how to match data of different types of Alters from Waves 1, 2, 3, and 4.

6.3.1 Current partner and ex-partner(s)

Information on the current partner was collected in the C-module and in the G-module. In the G-module, variable names with information on the current partner end with the characters CP, just as in previous waves. It should be noted that CP data in Wave 1, 2, 3, and 4 only pertain to the same person if Anchor still has the same partner. The variables BNEWPART, CNEWPART and DNEWPART can be used to verify this.

In the X-module, information on the partner in Wave 3²³ is stored in variables with names ending on P3, whereas information on a possible new partner in Wave 4 is stored in variables with names ending on P4. In Wave 4, no demographic information was collected on former ex-partners already present at Wave 3.

6.3.2 Parents

Information on the parents of Anchor was collected in the B-, G- and X-modules. In the G- and X-modules, variable names with information on the Anchor's father end with the character F and on the Anchor's mother with M, just as in Waves 1, 2, and 3. No link between the G-module and X-module is provided, given that there is only one Father (F) and only one Mother (M) in the X-module.

6.3.3 Current partner of parents

In Wave 4 the same information on the current partner of Anchor's parents has been collected as in Wave 3. However, demographic information was collected only for a new current partner of the parents who was not already present at Wave 3. The variables DNEWFP and DNEWMP indicate whether one or both biological parents of Anchor had a new current partner. As in Wave 3, current partners of parents were not included in the G-module.

²³ This can be an ex-partner at Wave 4.

6.3.4 Parents-in-law

In Wave 4 only demographic information on parents-in-law of new partners has been collected. Demographic information is provided in the X-module, and stored in variables ending with FL4 and ML4.

6.3.5 Siblings

In Wave 4 the same information on siblings as in Wave 1, 2, and 3 has been collected. Demographic information is provided in the X-module, and support exchange information is collected on two siblings in the G-module. These siblings are the same as those selected in previous waves. In the X-module, variable names that contain information on siblings end on S1-S9, T1-T9 or U1-U4, depending on the rank number of the sibling. These names correspond to those in Wave 1, 2, and 3. For instance, if information on a certain sibling was stored in variables with names ending with S3 in Wave 1, 2, and 3, the variables with names ending with S3 in Wave 4 contain information on the same sibling. In the G-modules, the variable names with information on siblings end with SA and SB, respectively. Again, sibling A in Wave 4 is the same sibling as sibling A in Wave 1, 2, and 3, and the same goes for sibling B. To determine which siblings in the X-module correspond to siblings A and B in the G-module, variables DGXRELSA and DGXRELSB can be used. Variables DGXRELSA and DGXRELSB tell which of the siblings (S1-S9, T1-T9, U1-U4) correspond to sibling A and sibling B, respectively.

6.3.6 Children

In Wave 4 information on children already reported on in Waves 1, 2, and 3 has been collected. Demographic information is provided in the X-module, and support exchange information is collected on two children in the G-module. These children are the same as those selected in previous waves. In the X-module, variable names that contain information on children end on C1-C9, D1-D3, N1-N6 (new children in Wave 2), and N11-N15 (new children in Wave 3) depending on the rank number of the child, and the wave in which the child was reported. These names correspond to those in Wave 1, 2, and 3. For instance, if information on a certain child was stored in variables with names ending with C6 in Waves 1, 2, and 3, the variable names ending with C6 in Wave 4 contain information on the same child. In the G-modules, the variable names with information on children end with KA and KB, respectively. Again, child A in Wave 4 is the same child as child A in previous waves, and the same goes for child B. To determine which children in the X-module correspond to children A and B in the G-module, variables CGXRELKA and CGXRELKB can be used. Variables CGXRELKA and CGXRELKB tell which of the children (C1-C9, D1-D3) correspond to child A and child B, respectively.

In Wave 4, questions have also been posed on children born since Wave 3. Demographic information on these ‘new’ children have been stored in the X-module in variables with names that end on N21-N24.

6.4 Suspect quality of interview data

Data checks, comparing the Wave 4 data with the Wave 3 data, identified 3 Anchor respondents with different sex and/or birth date reports at the different waves. For each of these 3 Anchors, we controlled whether the built-in checks regarding the correct situation at Wave 3 (see 2.1) revealed any additional inconsistencies, and whether the Anchor indicated that he or she knew the Alters that were reported in the former waves (i.e., variables DX400_). Based on this information we concluded that in all cases the correct person was interviewed, and that the changes to either the sex or birth date were corrections on these characteristics made during the interview.

Appendix 1: Introductory letter to respondents

Re: Survey of Family ties in the Netherlands

Dear Sir/Madam,

About ten, seven, and four years ago you took part in a study of family ties in the Netherlands. The study yielded valuable information about for example grandparenthood, divorce, loneliness and emerging family patterns. Results from the study reach the newspapers regularly.

We are now conducting a follow-up among all participants in this study and would like to know what has happened over the past four years and how you would now describe your family ties. Again, you get the opportunity to tell us about your views on child rearing, the care for one another, and family responsibilities.

At the end of the last interview, you indicated that you would be willing to participate in a follow-up study. We would like to ask you to participate by completing the questionnaire online, which will take about 45-60 minutes of your time. You can start the questionnaire by going to www.gfk.nl/familiebanden and by logging in using the personalized password provided below:

Password: <<S_PW>>

When completing the questionnaire, you can pause at any moment, save your answers, and continue at a later time. At a later stage you will be given the opportunity to complete the questionnaire using a telephone interview instead.

As a token of our appreciation, you will be included in a raffle for three iPad Airs (with a value of €460,- each) and will receive a summary of the results.

All information provided will of course be anonymous. Your name and address will be stored separately from the research results and will never be passed on to others.

The survey is being conducted in cooperation with GfK fieldwork agency. Should you have any further questions, please feel free to contact GfK during office hours at the toll-free telephone number 0800-2255435 (option 8) or by e-mail: familie@nkps.nl. For more information about the study, please find further details on our website: www.nkps.nl.

Thank you for your cooperation.

With kind regards,

Professor Pearl Dykstra

QUESTIONNAIRE FOR THE FOURTH NKPS WAVE

May 2014

(excluding instruction protocol and introduction)

- Text given in normal font should be read out by the interviewer.
- Most answers do not have to be read out, unless explicitly indicated.
- Text preceded by INT are instructions for the interviewer.
- Text in bold are technical programming instructions.
- → question DA103A means go to the question specified.
- Many questions are preceded by conditions in bold or have conditions in bold in the answers. They do not appear in the text the interviewer/respondent sees.
- Questions in the fourth wave begin with a D, questions from the first wave begin with an A, questions from Wave 2 begin with a B, and questions from Wave 3 begin with a C.
- Text in brackets: {text} is information that needs to be retrieved from earlier sources of information (either from this (=fourth) wave or the third, second or first wave).
- The interviewer is often referred to Module X. The questions referred to are standard questions about the family member (Alter). The set of questions differs per Alter, however. Where the reference is given, the questions concerned are usually specified, but the conditions are also given in Module X itself.

A. BACKGROUND

As a double-check, the questions below will be answered at the beginning of the interview to make sure that the right person is being interviewed.

We would first like to check your name and address. We received this information during our earlier interviews.

We will start by asking for some background information.

If necessary, repeat for potential respondent X = 1 to N = 20

DA101_X What is your sex?

- 1 male
- 2 female

DA102_X What is your date of birth?

- Enter the date of birth [dd-mm-yyyy]

If DA101 and DA102 do not tally with the information gathered in Wave 3 (CA101 and CA102), ask questions DA103 to DA103B:

DA103_X It is very important that we interview the same person we interviewed in {month/year interview Wave 3}. Based on our information, we then interviewed a {CA101} born on {CA102} who is a member of your household. Is that someone else in your household?
1 yes, that is someone else → question DA103B
2 no, this person is not a member of our household → question DA103A

DA103A_X The information we gathered at the time may be wrong. Were you the person interviewed last time?

- 1 yes, respondent was/you were interviewed → question DB400FA
- 2 no, respondent was/you were not interviewed → Fill where Xmax = X

DA103B_X The questions are only intended for that person. May I speak to him/her or make an appointment for an interview with him/her? [CAWI: Please ask him/her to complete this web interview] → Back to instruction protocol (Xmax =X + 1)

Substitute for X = Xmax

DA101 = DA101_X

DA102 = DA102_X

DA103 = DA103_X

DA103A = DA103A_X

DA103B = DA103B_X

Now calculate DAGE: respondent's age in years based on date of interview and date of birth (DA102_X)

B. PARENTAL HOME

The next questions are about your parental home

If it is not known whether the father was alive during Wave 3 skip questions about father and continue with mother: → DB400MA.

If father was alive in Wave 3 and mother had died during Wave 3, but the parents were living together before, the situation of father is unknown. This information should be asked now: If CB410FA=2 and CB401MB=2 → DB400FC

- DB400FA. Based on our information your own father was
INT: Read out loud:
- not alive (CB401FA=1 or CB401FB=2)
- married to or living with your mother (CB402=2)
- living alone (CB403F=2 or CB404F=2 or CB405F=2 or CB405F=3 or CB406F=2)
- married to or living with a new partner who is not your biological mother (CB403F=1 or CB404F=1 or CB405F=1 or CB406F=1)
at the time of the last interview in {month/year interview Wave 3}

Is this correct?

- 1 yes → question DB401FB, DB400FA is entered in DB401FA
- 2 no

If information is missing, ask DB400FB.

INT: Read out the answers.
1 father not alive → question DB400MA

- DB400FC What was your own father's situation at the time of the last interview, in {month/year interview Wave 3}?
INT: Read out the answers.
3 father living alone
4 father married to or living with a new partner

[save result of DB400FA-DB400FC in question DB401FA evaluate and choose the appropriate routing. Do NOT show information on screen (again)]

If you do not know whether the mother was alive during Wave 3 skip questions about mother and continue with questions about father (as far as this is known); otherwise go to DB602.

If mother was alive in Wave 3 and father had died during Wave 3, but the parents were living together before, the situation of mother is unknown. This information should be asked now: If CB410MA=2 and CB401FB=2 → DB400MC

DB400MA Based on our information your own mother was:

INT: Read one of the options that will appear on the screen

- not alive (CB401MA=1 or CB401MB=2)

- 1 mother not alive → question DB404F (no Module X questions)
- 2 mother married to or living with your father

DB401MC In which year did she die?

If the respondent does not know the year of death, ask for the best possible estimate.

- enter year → go to question DB602

- Questions about the relationship the respondent was in at the time of the last interview
 - relationship history

Note that the characteristics of the children mentioned in Module X should not be dealt with until the parents' relationship history has been recorded. This is important because information is needed about a possible divorce of the parents in Module X (there will be additional questions about children of divorced parents).

Based on information obtained in Wave 3 the following information will be read out/will appear on the screen

- DC003 At the time of the last interview, in {month/year interview Wave 3}
1 you did not have a partner (CPARTNER=1)
2 you had a partner with whom you did not live (CPARTNER=2)
3 you had a partner with whom you lived outside of marriage (CPARTNER=3)
4 you were married and lived with your spouse (CPARTNER=4)
- DC004 Is this correct?
1 yes → question DC006
2 no → question DC005

QUESTIONNAIRE VOOR DE VIERDE RONDE NKPS

MEI 2014

(exclusief instructie protocol en introductie)

- Gewoon gedrukte tekst moet interviewer voorlezen.
- Antwoorden hoeven meestal niet in eerste instantie te worden voorgelezen, tenzij explicet vermeld.
- Tekst voorafgegaan door INT: is instructie voor de interviewer
- Vet gedrukte teksten zijn technische aanwijzingen voor het programmeren
- → vraag DA103A zijn doorverwijzingen
- Bij veel vragen staan vet gedrukte condities in de regel boven de vraag of in de antwoorden. Deze komen niet in de tekst terecht die de interviewer/respondent voor zich krijgt.
- Let erop dat bij doorverwijzingen naar een vraag, de condities die staan boven de vraag worden meegenomen.
- Vragen in de huidige wave beginnen met een D, vragen uit Wave 1 beginnen met een A, vragen uit Wave 2 beginnen met een B en vragen uit Wave 3 beginnen met een C.
- Tekst tussen haakjes: {tekst}, is tekst die op basis van eerdere informatie (uit deze wave of uit de eerdere waves) gehaald moet worden.
- Vaak staan er verwijzingen in naar het X-blok. Het gaat hier om een set standaardvragen per alter. De set verschilt echter afhankelijk van het soort alter. In de verwijzing wordt meestal al aangegeven om welke vragen het gaat, maar in het X-blok zelf staan de condities ook aangegeven.

A. ACHTERGROND

De volgende vragen dienen als check om na te gaan of de juiste persoon wordt geïnterviewd.

We willen starten met het controleren van uw naam en adres. Deze gegevens hebben we nog uit het vorige gesprek.

Dan willen we nu beginnen met de achtergrondgegevens.

INT: Herhaal indien nodig voor potentiele respondent X = 1 tot N = 20

DA101_X Wat is uw geslacht?

- 1 man
- 2 vrouw

DA102_X Wat is uw geboortedatum?

[dd-mm-jjjj]

DA103 t/m DA103B stellen indien DA101 en DA102 niet kloppen met informatie uit Wave 3 (CA101 en CA102):

DA103_X Het is voor ons heel belangrijk dat precies dezelfde persoon wordt geïnterviewd als in {maand/jaar interview Wave 3} {informatie uit vorige wave verschijnt nu op het scherm}. Volgens onze gegevens is toen een interview gehouden met een {CA101} geboren op {CA102} uit uw huishouden. Is dat iemand anders uit uw huishouden?

- 1 ja, dat is iemand anders → vraag DA103B
- 2 nee, zo iemand is er niet in het huishouden → vraag DA103A

DA103A_X Het kan zijn dat onze informatie van destijds onjuist is. Bent u de persoon die de vorige keer is geïnterviewd?

- 1 ja, respondent is/u bent wel geïnterviewd → vraag DB400FA
- 2 nee, respondent is/u bent niet geïnterviewd → Fill waarbij Xmax = X

DA103B_X De vragen zijn alléén bedoeld voor díe persoon. Kan ik die spreken of een afspraak met hem/haar maken? [CAWI: Kunt u hem/haar vragen dit webinterview in te vullen?] → Terug naar benaderingsprotocol (Xmax=X+1)

Vervang voor X = Xmax

DA101 = DA101_X

DA102 = DA102_X

DA103 = DA103_X

DA103A = DA103A_X

DA103B = DA103B_X

Bereken nu DAGE: leeftijd van respondent in jaren, o.b.v. interviewdatum en geboortedatum (DA102_X)

Als deze variabele ontbreekt, vragen voor desbetreffende kind overslaan.

DC059 Bij het vorige interview spraken we met u over uw kinderen en eventuele kinderen van een partner als u die had, voor zover die ooit bij u woonden. Voor elk van deze kinderen willen we opnieuw enkele vragen stellen.

Vraag DC059_XX wordt gesteld voor alle kinderen XX =C1 tot XX = D3; XX=N1 tot XX=N6; en XX=N11 tot XX=N15. Geboortejaren komen uit AX301C1 ... AX301D3; BX301N1 ... BX301N6; en CX301N11 ... CX301N15.

DC059_XX We stellen nu een aantal vragen over {omschrijving, naam}, geboren in {geboortejaar}.

Nu worden over bestaande kinderen de vragen uit het X-blok gesteld. Er gelden de volgende condities:

- Indien nog samen met partner Wave 3 (DC015=1) of partner Wave 3 overleden (DC016=2): stel de volgende vragen (let ook op de routing binnen het X-blok!): DX400, DX401, DX402, DX501, DX502, DX601, DX602, DX603, DX604, DX701 t/m DX705.
- Indien gescheiden van partner Wave 3 (DC017B=1) (let ook op de routing binnen het X-blok!): DX400, DX401, DX402, DX501B t/m DX501I, DX502, DX601, DX602, DX603, DX604, DX605, DX606.

EVENTUEEL NOG GEMISTE KINDEREN

Als er sinds het vorige interview kinderen zijn geboren (DC019=1 of DC041=1)

DC080A In het vraaggesprek hebben we het gehad over de kinderen die u sinds het vorige interview heeft gekregen. Is er misschien nog een ander kind dat u sinds het vorige interview heeft gekregen?

- 1 ja
- 2 nee → vraag DC711

Als er sinds het vorige interview geen eerder gemelde kinderen zijn geboren (DC019=2 en DC041=2) vraag DC080B stellen, maar niet voor vrouwelijk respondenten van 46 jaar en ouder of voor mannelijke respondenten met vrouwelijke partner van 46 jaar en ouder ((DA101=2 en DAGE>46) of (DA101=1 en (AC102<1969 en BC015=1 en CC015=1 en DC015=1) of ((BC006A of BC033A)<1969 en CC015=1 en DC015=1) of ((CC006A or CC033A)<1969 en DC015=1) of (DC006A<1969 en DC015=1))).

DC080B In het vraaggesprek is tot nog toe naar voren gekomen dat u sinds het vorige interview geen kinderen heeft gekregen. Het kan zijn dat we een geboorte gemist hebben, bijvoorbeeld uit een relatie die niet aan de orde is geweest.

Daarom willen we u vragen: 'Heeft u sinds het vorige interview een kind gekregen?'.

- 1 ja
- 2 nee → vraag DC711

Voor degenen die geen relatie hadden in Wave 3 en ook daarna geen relatie hebben gehad (dus aan wie de vragen DC019 en DC041 helemaal niet zijn gesteld) de vraagformulering iets aanpassen:

DC080B In het vraaggesprek hebben we tot nu toe niet gesproken over kinderen. Volgens onze informatie hebt u sinds het vorige interview geen kinderen gekregen. Het kan zijn dat we een geboorte gemist hebben, bijvoorbeeld uit een relatie die niet aan de orde is geweest. Daarom willen we u vragen: 'Heeft u sinds het vorige interview een kind gekregen?'.
1 ja
2 nee → vraag DC711

DC080C Hoeveel kinderen waren dat?
- Noteer aantal kinderen

DC080_XX Wat is de voornaam van dit kind?

Nu worden standaardkenmerken van dit nieuwe kind/deze nieuwe kinderen gevraagd, dat wil zeggen, DX201, DX301, DX401, DX402, DX501, DX502, DX602, DX603, DX604, DX701 t/m DX705. Vervolgens door naar DC701.

Voor alle nieuwe kinderen wordt nu een DAGEXX variabele aangemaakt (uit interviewdatum en DX301XX). DC711 en DC712 niet voor vrouwelijk respondenten van 46 jaar en ouder en voor mannelijke respondenten met vrouwelijke partner van 46 jaar en ouder ((DA101=2 en DAGE>45) of (DA101=1 en (AC102<1969 en BC015=1 en CC015=1 en DC015=1) of ((BC006A of BC033A)<1969 en CC015=1 en DC015=1) of ((CC006A of CC033A)<1969 en DC015=1) of (DC006A<1969 en DC015=1))).

DC711 Bent u op dit moment in verwachting? {"Bent u" vervangen door "Is uw partner" en "van uw kind" toevoegen als DA101=1}
1 ja
2 nee → vraag DC713

DC712 U bent in verwachting. Verwacht u in de toekomst nog meer kinderen te krijgen? {"U bent" vervangen door "Uw partner is" als DA101=1}
1 ja
2 misschien
3 nee

DC713 – DC722 niet voor mannelijke respondenten ouder dan 50 jaar (DA101=1 en DAGE > 50) en vrouwelijke respondenten van 46 jaar en ouder (DA101=2 en DAGE > 45).

D. BROERS EN ZUSSEN

Indien de respondent geen levende broers of zussen had in Wave 3 (geen enkele 1 bij CX401S1, CX401S2...S9, T1...T9, U1...U4), dan door naar blok E.

Als deze variabele ontbreekt vragen voor desbetreffende broer/zus overslaan.

Dan nu een aantal vragen over uw broer(s) en/of zus(sen) over wie wij met u hebben gesproken in het interview van {maand/jaar interview Wave 3}.

De volgende vraag refereert naar alle broers en zussen, half-broers en -zussen, adoptie-broers en -zussen en stief-broers en -zussen. Ze worden aangeduid als uw broer (AX201S1...S9, T1...T9, U1...U4 = 1) of uw zus (AX201S1...S9, T1...T9, U1...U4 = 2).

DD001_X We stellen nu enkele vragen over uw {broer/zus} die geboren is in {AX301S1...S9, T1...T9, U1...U4}.

Nu worden standaardkenmerken van broers en zussen (inclusief halfsiblings, geadopteerde siblings, en stiefsiblings) verzameld uit het X-blok, nl. vragen DX400, DX401, DX402, DX501, DX502, DX601 t/m DX604, DX701 t/m DX705. Zie blok X voor de details.

Als er geen andere personen zijn die tot nu toe als huishoudensleden zijn geïdentificeerd, dus als er niemand op deze lijst staat, dan luidt vraag DE101:

DE101 Wonen er, buiten uzelf, nog andere mensen hier in huis?
