Notes

a) The answer options doesn't know (DK) and no response (NA) can be entered in the data entry software in three ways, depending on the form of the question:

1. For most questions, these options are not offered but can be entered with special key combinations. In the case of routing question, the * sign indicates the option with which the programme proceeds in case of a DK or NA code.

Example:

301. Have you participated in formal studies in a school during the past four years?

1 – yes

2 – no* → CONTINUE WITH 401 (GO TO THE NEXT BLOCK)

2. In some particularly sensitive cases (e.g. questions about income), the DK and NA options are explicitly offered.

3. There are a few mandatory questions, indicated by the § sign. In these cases, the DK or NA codes are not allowed and the data entry software gives an error message if these codes are entered.

Example:

B01 § In what year were you born?

b) The corresponding variable names are printed in the questionnaire next to each question. For questions where the answers are to be entered in a table, the variable names associated with the question can be found in the table itself.

c) When asked about dates, respondents were offered the option to indicate seasons instead of months if they could not remember the exact month in which the event took place.

Season codes: 13 – spring, 14 – summer, 15 – autumn, 16 – winter.
